Also this night that dream...

Like a spider dropping into a crack...
...I found myself alone, small and lost.

Ahead of me only darkness and a path

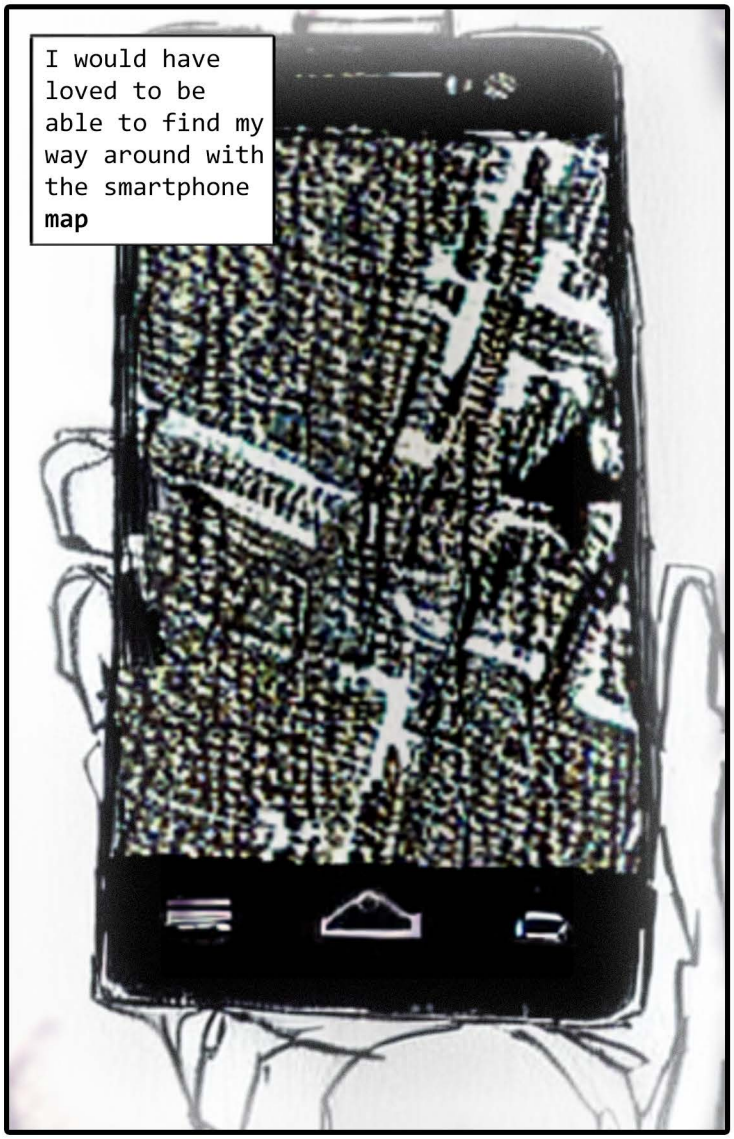
Which I crossed fortunately dodging the dangers that the darkness concealed



I would have loved to be able to find my way around with the smartphone map

The path was very reminis-cent of the golden path of the Wizard of Oz.

Wet from the dripping rain

I came to a pond with Toad

One of them started to bounce...

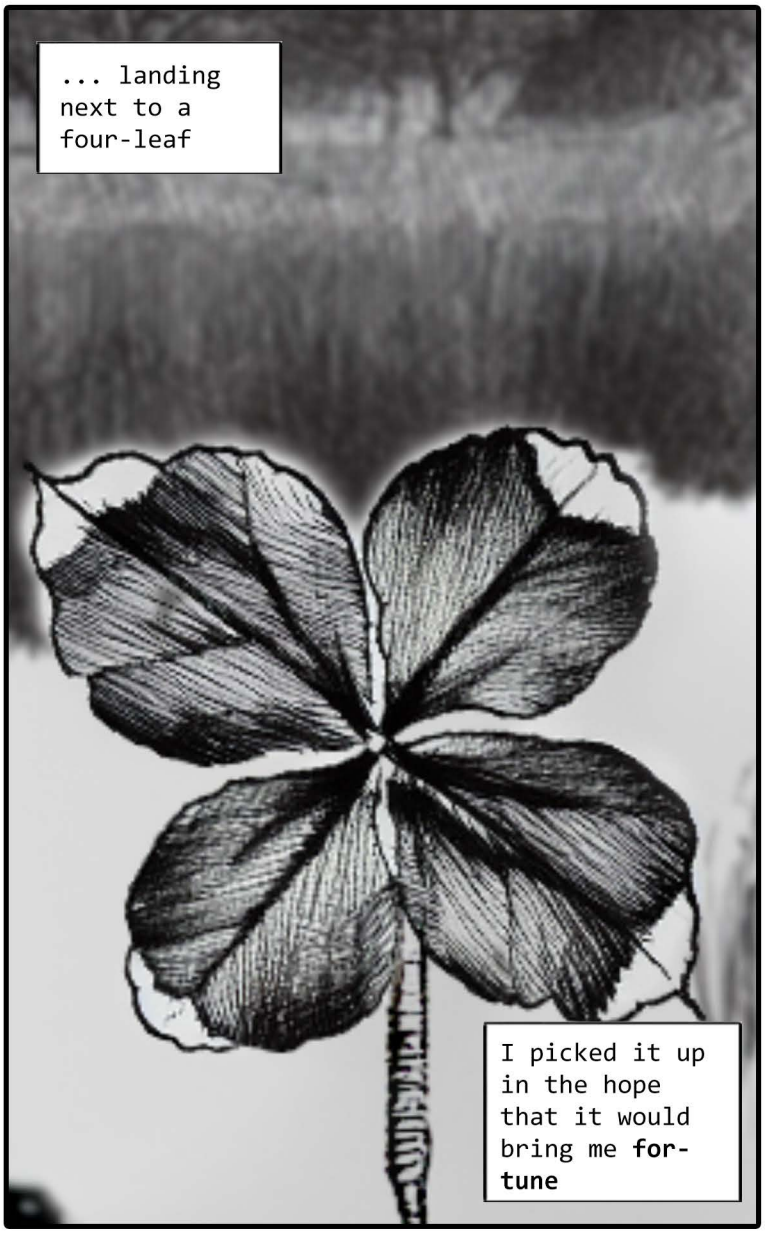
... landing next to a four-leaf



I picked it up in the hope that it would bring me for-tune

And I wandered again...

... occasional-ly eating these berries with a spicy after-taste.

I continued on my way, more and more rise...

... until i see a castle

It was at that moment that a dagger fell from the sky

Looking up I saw an angel with white hair, fighting versus...

... a demon with black hair and mutilated hands.

A horse with a man on its saddle approached me

He was plump, wearing a tunic, he looked like a member of the castle court

And he invited me to come up and leave...
... as frost descended on the forest.

I noticed around the man's neck a chain with a snowflake pendant

The same culprits of that scratchy cold...

... which was broken by the heat of the angel's manifestation of celestial power.

His power created a rift in the sky from which only a shallow darkness could be seen.

From it emerged a Seraphim, bigger and more dangerous than anything I had ever seen.

His advent alone managed to remove all the leaves from the trees in the surrounding area.

The eye of that monstrous beast was very close to us, watching our every move...

... until we saw a spark inside it.

It was the demon's massive weapon that pierced him.

Seraphim's shout caused our horse to rush away in a hurry

Carrying us away from the forest now engulfed in fire from the demon's attack.

I WAKE UP
